One unarmed man among thirty women! The height of helplessness. Small wonder that Abe, though he registered as Old Lady 31 in order to be near his destitute wife, Angie, felt like the proverbial, though vastly depreciated, thirty cents. How Abe came to be in this unhappy situation and what came of his predicament is told in one of the quaintest, most delightful pictures ever screened, "Old Lady 31", and Emma Dunn, as Angie, the wife, plays for the screen the part she immortalized on the New York stage. This screen-classic is playing at the Globe tonight.

Dr. W. G. Ricker and family, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Carrie Warren of Wells River, leave Monday for a month's automobile trip to Nova Scotia. After landing at Digby on the boat they will visit the Evangeline country and then go into the woods and camp. Dr. Ricker takes a trailer with his automobile with a complete camp equipment weighing about 700 pounds.

E. A. Silsby, private secretary to Senator Carroll S. Page, arrived in St. Johnsbury Tuesday night, having made the trip from Washington in his automobile. Mr. Silsby will spend the summer here and reports roads good all the way home except from Philadelphia to Washington where the usually fine macadam roads had been badly worn by the heavy trucks.
